MEMORIES

Memories affix themselves, uninvited.

Long years past importance,

They surface to comfort, embarrass,

Or confuse my present.

Time stops.

Forgotten faces, places, sounds

Aromas are now juxtaposed.

I am loved, enraged, or amused afresh.

I am suspended in time,

Possessed by the past.

Virginia Maljean, 1985

DEDICATION

The Regis College Class of 1999 dedicates this yearbook to S. Anna Michael, CSJ, in appreciation for the care, compassion, and concern which she exhibits toward every member of the Regis College community.

SISTER ANNA MICHAEL

Over the past four years, one smiling face which every student in the class of 1999 has become familiar with is that of Sister Anna Michael. Whether it is lunch or breakfast, when each of us arrived at the cafeteria, she greeted us with a friendly smile, concern with how our day is going, or just a simple comment about this or that. After all those late nights of studying, Sister Anna always was there for us to reassure us that we will pass that test with flying colors. No matter the kind of day, Sister Anna always has a kind word and a heartfelt smile for every student who walks by her. It is with her warm heart and contagious laughter that Sister Anna truly embodies the Regis College spirit.

S. Anna Michael has shown with her life the joy that can be found in giving. Sister Anna has gone above and beyond her call of duty to ensure that all students find Regis College to be an enjoyable environment in which to continue their education. Her spirit, hard work, and dedication will forever be firmly etched into all our lives and minds. This is why the graduating class of 1999 wishes to dedicate this yearbook to this wonderful woman.

Dear members of the Class of 1999,

As another chapter in your lives comes to a close, an exciting future lays ahead of you. Embrace it, as Regis College has embraced you. During your time here you learned that the College recognizes and treasures each unique individual. Your contributions have made Regis College a better place and I hope you realize how much you have grown. Draw strength from the challenges you have faced and the obstacles you have overcome. Take with you the knowledge you have gained both inside and outside of the classroom and share it with everyone you meet.

Remember you will forever be a part of Regis College; you bear our name. Keep in touch with the College and your classmates. In the years ahead, they will remain some of your best friends and your greatest resources. Take care of each other. Support each other. Remember that in Regis College, you will always have a community that cherishes its connection to you.

I look forward to welcoming you back to campus time and time again.

THESE ARE THE DAYS

These are the days. Oh, oh.
These are days
You'll remember

Never before and ever since
I promise

Will the world be warm as this.
And as you feel it, you'll know it's true
That you are blessed and lucky.

It's true that you
Are touched by something
That'll grow and bloom
In you

These are days
That you'll remember
When May is rushing over you
With Desire

To be part of the miracles you see
In every hour
You'll know it's true
That you are blessed and lucky

It's true that you are touched
By something
That'll grow and bloom
In you

These Are Days
These Are the Days
You might fill with laughter
Until you break

These days you might feel
A shaft of light
Make its way across your face
And when you do
You'll know how it was meant to be

See the signs and know their meaning

It's true
And then you'll know how it was meant to be
Hear the the signs and know they're speaking
To you. To You.

Regis Comes Alive

From early mornings to late nights. From the cafeteria to College Hall. From classes to a weekend party. From September to May. Regis girls are up for anything. Whatever that may be.

Freshman Year

Freshman year. So many issues, so little time! Meeting your roommate and moving out two weeks later. Eight AM classes and eating more than three square meals a day. Zits, zits, and more zits. It must be the water (that also explains the weight gain). Who could forget those MIT frat parties or the mystery punch?

Sophomore Year

For some a major slump and for others a career highlight. When your schedule only consisted of gen ed classes and you couldn't wait for that language requirement to be done. Serving at the Christmas banquet and dinner with Sister Sheila will always be memorable. Declaring a major and changing it again and again and, well, again.

Cap and Gown and Hoop Rolling were held on Sunday, October 4. The beauty of the day was reflected in the grace of the ceremony as Service Award winners Lisa Almeida, Alicia D'Oyley, and Page Wheaton gave speeches which touched the audience and the senior class. Hoop rolling provided an entertaining close to the day. Both events affirmed to the class that it was finally our senior year.

The class of 2000 is a vibrant and diverse group of young women who embody the six ideals of Regis College. These women are members of athletic teams, service projects, student organizations, and take part in study abroad programs. They are also preparing to become professionals; embarking in internship, holding jobs, yet learning time management to enable them to enjoy the finer things in life. The women in the class of 2000 are bound for success.

Campus Cookout

September 1998

The traditional All-Campus Cookout was held on the front lawn of College Hall in early September '98. As we were finally seniors, and relaxed from our summer break, many of us took the opportunity to eat, drink, dance and to catch up with friends we had not seen since May. The acapella group sang many of our old time favorite songs, which got everyone even more excited about being back on campus.

"Screams and Laughs"

Laughs and screams at Regis College, the famous Oktoberfest Weekend hit the college campus from October 21 to 26.

What a weekend! The events that filled the campus included a Black Light Rave, a haunted tunnel, and the famous comedian, Anthony Clark.
The Regis College Board of Programmers, Student Government Association, and the Regis soccer team did an excellent job of scaring the crowds as they walked through the tunnel. People were led through the tunnel by a tour guide and were reeted with absolute terror. As guests left the nnel, they all piled into the Tower Tavern for a ght of fun and dancing. Oktoberfest did not end ere, however.

n Saturday night, the Board of Programmers, udent Government Association, and the Dean of udents brought to us the hilarious Anthony Clark, who had the college audience in hysterical laughter all night long. As he began laughing at his own jokes, students began to laugh even louder.

All of the week's events were a big success, and the Regis campus was full of laughs and screams.

Studying Abroad

To leave the comforts of home, family and friends and go to unfamiliar surroundings brings on a wide array of emotions-uncertainty, sadness, even fear-but also feelings of excitement, adventure and pride because you have made that huge step out of your comfort zone, into the unknown. One week we were in our little towns, the next we were in an unfamiliar place. The friendships that grew between students was wonderful, the people we lived with and hung out with truly became family. Memories we made and friends we bonded with will never be forgotten. They will always be reminders of the independence and strength needed to take this huge step in our lives. At the end of the journey, the once unfamiliar surroundings and faces became our home, our family and friends. This memorable journey has become a permanent page in our ever-changing book of life.

Fall Play

On November 19-22, staff, students and friends of Regis College gathered in the Casey Theatre to experience tons of laughs and delicious food. The Regis College Theatre Company performed The Art of Dining written by Tina Howe and directed by Ron Heneghan. This "comedy of culinary chaos" brought the audience into Cal and Ellen's converted restaurant. As Ellen is preparing the feast, Cal is taking care of customers with style and grace. The evening does not go as planned since Cal is eating whatever he can get his hands on, a wacky woman is afraid of food, three women are fighting over their entrees, while a couple is fawning over their meals, as well as each other. Although Ellen literally throws the towel in and refuses to cook because of Cal's overeating, the show ends with a peaceful flame emanating from the tremendous dessert. The play was set in a beautiful restaurant with classy-looking customers. The evening turned into complete chaos which actually resembled some of the wacky things we do in our lives. Each night had an active audience who made the night complete.

Christmas Semi

December 1998

On December 5, 1998, the Christmas Semi-formal was held in the Fine Arts Center. Liz Avery and the other resident assistants once again did a lovely job of putting everything together. The Fine Arts Center was full of Regis spirit as 250 people gathered for an evening of good times and memories. The night was full of fun and excitement, laughter and dancing, until 1:00 a.m.

Christmas Banquet
December 1998

In December 1998, the Regis College cafeteria once again provided a beautiful Christmas atmosphere with decorated Christmas trees, fancy dinnerware, and the famous sophomore servers. Naomi Letendre, SGA President, served as Mistress of Ceremonies, as she spoke eloquently about the meaning and the joys of Christmas. Naomi provided touching guidance and advice to each class using the metaphor of stars from the heavens to guide us. This year's Christmas Banquet was particularly touching for the senior class since we knew it was the last one we will ever attend.

Unsung Heroine Awards were presented to two students who have gone above and beyond their call of duty as students and have reached out to their communities. Recipients were Tangela Burgess and Ayeko Vinton, both of whom accepted their deserved awards emotionally and gratefully.

Katie, Carrie, and Kelly treasure their last Christmas Banquet.

World Events: 1995-1999

There is so much that we seniors have to look back on from our first days at Regis College. Let's reflect on events that occurred outside our "Regis World" through these four years.

We all remember the trial of the decade-the O.J. Simpson trial. In September 1995, as we were entering Regis College, the Simpson trial was coming to a close. Simpson, a famous actor and football player, was accused in 1992 of murdering his ex-wife, Nicole Simpson, and her friend, Ronald Goldman. The trial lasted four years and drove a wedge among races in the United States. When the verdict of not guilty was handed down on October 3, blacks praised the verdict as a triumph for their race and whites considered it an abomination of the American legal system.

In October 1995, the Million Man March took place in Washington, D.C. It was publicized as a "march to promote pride amongst Black men." The march excluded all women and "whites." It appeared to be another way of separating the races and sexes. Yet the march was peaceful and provided some guidance in the lives of so many who were "lost."

The year of our beginning seemed, unfortunately, the end for some others. This year of 1995 brought the Oklahoma Bombing on April 19. This date also was the second anniversary of the Waco, Texas event. The Oklahoma Bombing was the explosion of a federal building by an American terrorist, Timothy McVeigh. The explosion killed 168 people, including 19 children. McVeigh was given the death penalty.

The following year was relatively calm and quiet. The year 1996 brought not only our sophomore year but also another four years of the Clinton Administration and more conflict with Saddam Hussein. Clinton continued to face opposition from the Republicans who seemed to be determined to undermine his Presidency. The Paula Jones trial and the Whitewater investigation created embarrassing publicity. Democratic fund-raising techniques created another potential scandal. Concern arose over John Huang's solicitation of $250,000 in "soft money."

In September 1997, Regis College was bustling with the start of our junior year, yet that August tragedy had the world mourning with the deaths of Princess Diana and Mother Theresa within weeks of each other. Princess Diana died a tragic death in a car crash in Paris after being pursued by paparazzi. Diana Spencer was mourned, and is still being mourned, because of her charm and her timeless contributions to charities. None will forget the millions of flowers placed at the gates of her home, her funeral, or the image of people around the world weeping for this loss to mankind. Only a week later came news of Mother Theresa's death. She died of natural causes but that did not make her loss to the world any less harsh or cruel. Princess Diana and Mother Theresa symbolized all that was decent, good, and "pure" and now they were gone. Both gave of themselves yet, the public eye focused on Princess Diana. It is ironic that both women contributed to the world out of compassion and kindness with no thought of themselves or personal benefit, yet Diana was given the funeral fit for the queen of the television era.

In the spring of 1997, Dr. Ian Wilmut cloned a baby lamb named Dolly. This technological innovation sparked much controversy about religion, the ethical question of cloning, especially pertaining to people, and the advancement of science. People questioned whether cloning should be allowed with humans because it was sure to become a crucial issue for those who are sick and need transplants, and others who had lost loved ones.

Court cases consumed much of our TV time. Another murder spurred a media frenzy. A young model, no more than five years old, was murdered in her home on Christmas Eve, 1997. Jon Bennet-Ramsey, was found dead in the basement of her home while her family slept upstairs. Jon Bennet was made famous not because of the money her family had but because of her hobby, modeling. She had been in beauty pageants since she learned how to walk. Her father and mother became suspects but the murderer still has not been brought to justice.

Louise Woodward was another famous name in the courts. Woodward was a British nanny who lived with a family in Massachusetts. When the two-year-old baby in her care died from what appeared to be shaken baby syndrome, the suspicion was targeted to Woodward. The case was news for months and when the guilty verdict was read, there were mixed emotions among the spectators. Louise returned to Britain but was summoned back to the United States for appeals and civil suits brought by the parents.

In science, 1997 gets the medal for advancement in technology. NASA placed a spacecraft called Pathfinder, on Mars. It provided detailed pictures of the surface of Mars and soil samples. Russia established a space station manned by three Russians and one American. Although the MIR experienced many malfunctions and technical difficulties, its presence and technological progression were impressive.

Toward the end of 1997and into 1998, the White House became concerned with alleged sexual misconduct being made public by Kenneth Starr's investigation into Whitewater. Bill Clinton, while being investigated supposedly for involvement in Whitewater, was accused of having oral sex in the Oval Office with an intern, Monica Lewinsky. When the story broke, Clinton made an address to the nation saying he did not have "sexual intercourse" with Miss Lewinsky. Months of further investigation and FBI questioning revealed that Clinton did indeed have oral sex with Lewinsky on multiple occasions. This led to his proclamation that he "misled the people." Clinton used a play on words and definitions in hopes of dodging perjury charges for his deposition to the investigating committee. This was surely a sad display of human conduct and betrayal not only by the president of the United States but also by those handling the investigation and impeachment trial, where Clinton was acquitted.

Clinton seemed able to keep his thoughts focused on the job. When two American embassies were bombed in Africa by terrorist Osama Bin Laden, Clinton retaliated by bombing areas believed to be used by terrorists in constructing chemical weapons.

The question of the tobacco companies' hold on the government received a response in the latter part of 1998 when Mississippi sued for the damage smoking causes. It was discovered that the cigarette companies hid vital health information about nicotine and its power to addict people. Tobacco companies had strong lobbyists who "worked" with the government in order to protect their markets, yet that all came crashing down when the companies were forced to pay millions of dollars in damages to certain states and were restricted in their use of advertisement.

The year ended on a fairly happy note for baseball lovers who watched Mark McGuire beat the record for most home runs in a season by hitting his 70th on September 27, 1998. Basketball began its season late because of a strike by players over salaries. As the season began in January 1999, Michael Jordan of the Bulls announced he was retiring.

As we near the day of graduation, I'm sure not many of us will give too much thought about the news of the world over these four years. Yet hopefully, this section in our yearbook will serve as a memoir of the world that changed along with our world at Regis College.

As Our World Turns:
A Look Back on 1995-1999

World Events Timeline

1995

September

Regis welcomes biggest freshwoman class in ten years.

1998

January

5 - Sonny Bono is killed in a tragic skiing accident.

March

15 - Dr. Spock dies, much to the dismay of our parents, who raised us on his books.

May

8 - Frank Sinatra, Chairman of the Board, died today.

September

21 - Florence Griffith Joyner, who brought flash as well as style to women's running, dies unexpectedly of a heart attack.

Soccer

Regis soccer had its best season ever in 1998, posting an 8-8 record. This year's team was lead by co-captains Melissa Farrow and Katie Murphy. The team enjoyed key wins over Salve Regina and Wentworth as well as overtime victories against Fitchburg State and Elms College. Melissa Farrow received the Scholar-Athlete award for the conference and freshwoman Kristy Benson was named to the Commonwealth Coast Conference All-Star team. Karen Benson, Kristy Benson, and Michelle Carr each received Rookie of the Week honors throughout the season. The team would like to thank head coach Cherise Galasso, and assistants Shaun Oliver and Kris VanderPlaat for making 1998 such a successful season!

Tennis

The Regis College tennis team had a successful 1998 season. Returning senior captain Nora Connolly won the first singles Commonwealth Coast Conference title, and was awarded Scholar Athlete of the conference. Chantel Marsubian, a first-year student, was a semifinalist in the second-singles flight of the conference. In addition, juniors Julia Mastronardi and Kathy Gonzalez were also semifinalists in the first-doubles flight. Next year's squad looks very promising with the return of four seniors: Kelly Moore, Meghan Broz, Julia Mastronardi, and Kathy Gonzalez.

Tools for success

Cross-Country

The 1998 cross-country season was another satisfying season. This year's team was lead by senior captain Katie Harrington and senior Stacey Bumpus. Although there was strong senior leadership, all team members contributed to the intensity and dedication that defined the season. One of the highlights of the fall season was the successful Regis Invitational where everyone ran their personal best times. At the Commonwealth Coast Conference meet at Gordon College, the team captured third place. Despite several injuries near the end of the season, the team's spirit remained strong until mid-November. Katie Harrington, freshmen Chelsie Metcalf and Courtney O'Keefe, and junior Katie O'Connor represented the Regis team as they faced tough competition at the ECAC Division III Championship Meet at Babson College.

Volleyball

The 1998 Regis volleyball season brought in many new faces and positive aspects. The team was led by new head coach Wayne Lem and assistant coach Alan Chue. Senior co-captains Erin Howe and Sherrill Erickson and junior captain Kelly Doyle together led the coaches and the team to a victorious season. The team consisted of six returning players and five first-year students whose skills and talent added a whole new dimension to the team. The season was a lot of hard work, but everyone had fun coming together as a team. The team attended the CCC Tournament and also the state tournament (MAIAW). This was an unforgettable year, but also a rebuilding one for the years to come!

Field Hockey

The Regis 1998 field hockey team played many more minutes than were scheduled. The team went into overtime to settle six out of its fifteen regular-season matches. Under first-year head coach Kim Kos, Regis won the first two overtime games, against Framingham State and Endicott College, but lost the last four. Those six overtime games set a Regis College record. The team had a 1-4 record in the Commonwealth Coast Conference and finished with an overall record of 2-14.

A Letter from the Editor

To the members of the Class of 1999:
As Yearbook Editor, I would like to take this opportunity to remind everyone to reflect on and cherish the past four years we've spent at Regis College. As I look back to our first year together as a class, I remember all the new faces, each of whom was scared or excited about being away from home, anxious to meet new friends, or curious about what college life would bring. We are now graduating and we all know what these past four years have brought to us. I truly hope that you not only find it all right here in this yearbook, but that you hold all of your experiences and new-found treasures so very close to your hearts for as long as you can. Maybe it was independence you found you gained from your college years, or possibly a greater sense of confidence, friends who you will never lose contact with. Maybe it was professors who touched both your lives and hearts, or how you discovered many strengths and abilities that you never thought you had. (I think we all know we found out we can live through more sleepless nights than we thought!) No matter what it is that you realize you have gained, or how you have grown as a result of this college experience, I wish that each and every one of you always remember these days. This Yearbook is meant to capture all the memories we have made during our college years, some of the most important years of our lives. It contains the most memorable moments of our lives, or possibly some of the ones we'd rather forget. Needless to say, they are moments that have shaped our college lives, made it what it has been to us throughout our journey of discovering life and who we really are. This is why I chose to call the theme of this yearbook "These Are the Days to Remember." Because these days of our lives are the days to remember, to never forget the times we've shared, the many late-night popcorn-eating chats we had in the hallways, to realize (someday) that all those ID courses had a purpose, and to know all that we have gained as a result of being the Women of Regis College. And that is my wish for you, the Class of 1999. I also wish all of you the best of luck in all that you do, and wherever you may find yourselves at any point in time. I'd like to thank all who gave me the opportunity to share this college experience with them, especially to those who gave me the opportunity to experience being the Editor of this Yearbook. It involved a lot of hard work and dedication, which I definitely would do all over again. I hope you all enjoy this book as much as I have in putting it together for you, with my staff.

Sincerely,
Lisa Joyce, Yearbook Editor

To the Class of 1999,
Congratulations!!! We made it! It feels like yesterday that we were nervous but yet excited freshman. Now, four years later we are women of Regis College who are soon to begin a new chapter in our lives.
I would like to thank the yearbook staff and also my friends, who took the time to help. All the page designing, cropping of pictures, labeling of pictures and many hours of coming up with captions would not have been complete without all of you. Thank you, if it were not for you there would be no yearbook, just ideas.
Good Luck Class of 1999, I wish you all the best.
Take Care,
Sara Greenwood

CONGRATULATIONS,
REGIS
GRADUATE!!

Megan Michael

Four years ago you, "our little girl", went off to college, to a school 1500 miles away, without family or friends.

You struggled through the hard times taking them on with courage, determination and always keeping your sense of humor.

We missed you, but like all good parents we wanted to give you an opportunity to succeed, to grow, to learn. Today we are proud of your success.

Though it was not easy, it helped forge you into a woman ready to take on the world with integrity, determination, and charity.

But remember Megan, as you take on your new challenges we will be here for you, to work together, to cry together, and to laugh together.

We know the world will be a better place because of you. We love you.

Class President's Letter

I can not believe that four years have past, and I sit here now writing this passage in dedication to you—the class of 1999. It is so hard to believe that we are graduating.

I feel as though it was yesterday when we were standing in the Atrium in the Fine Arts Center mustering a smile for our very first picture as a class. Do you remember how scared we were? I can remember thinking to myself how fun it would be-if I could just get through the first night everything would be okay.

Do you remember our first day of classes as first year students? Looking back, I think that was one of the only days I saw every shower taken at 7:00 am., people not wearing flannels or sweats, and a line in the cafeteria for a weekday breakfast! It was not soon after that we learned the value of "sleeping in" and grabbing breakfast on the go!

How about those naps! Can you remember when we had actual time to take naps?! Those afternoon snoozes were the best! After all, we did need our rest after those long nights of squirt gun fights and procrastination—those can wear a girl out!

Can you remember the sports events? How about Super Sunday? Did anyone ever win the $10,000 shot?

How about those times during the winter? Can you remember the snowball fights we used to have on the way back from meals? They were the ones that turned our fingers red from the cold but turned our hearts warm with laughter.

Do you remember the late-night coffee runs and pizza deliveries? I think we can charge our Freshman 15 to Domino's for they certainly stayed in business with us Reegi girls!

How about Sophomore year? Remember how much fun it was to serve at the Annual Christmas Banquet? We had so many laughs—and spills! The important part is that we had fun, right?

Can you remember our beautiful Junior Ring Ceremony? I can remember how each of us was seeing her ring for the first time, and starting the tradition of having 99 people turn it for good luck! I think we wore through layers of skin trying to turn the ring on nervous fingers!!

I'll never forget the T.T.'s, the Coffeehouses, or Pub Nights—the guest speakers, Spirit Days, or Hall events. Coming together as a class was always so much fun because it meant an opportunity for our friendships to grow.

We are such a special class, class of 1999, for together we can change the world. With the spirit in our hearts, and the compassion in our souls, we have the ultimate ability to go so far in life. As a class, we are a team. We are a team that would not be the same if one of our players was missing. Each and every young woman in our class should be proud of the individual she has become, and at the same time have pride in the team she has helped to form. Your strength, and compassion, have been a beacon of light which has guided our journey through the years. As a famous poet once said: "What lies behind us and what lies before us are tiny matters compared to what lives within us." The women of the class of 1999 have something truly special within you. Inside, you hold the spark to light the flame that guides others to safety. It is in your minds, class of 1999, that you have the gift of integrity and morale to combine together to make your gift of friendship a token to treasure forever. I will surely miss you ladies. It has been such a blessing to have known you and called you each a friend. Never forget the times we have spent here at Regis, and always remember that "You Are My One True Friend." Good-bye and Good Luck...miss you already

Mary Malany and Leo Chang retire

Two of the College's most-beloved professors retired in the spring. Mary Malany and Leo Chang each served Regis for more than thirty years. Sadly, Mary Malany died suddenly less than two months after her retirement. Both she and Leo Chang are greatly missed by the administration, faculty, staff and, especially, the students of Regis College.

Mary Malany and Leo Chang with Sister Sheila

Mary Malany '47
1926–1999

Upon the occasion of Mary Malany's retirement after thirty-three years at Regis, her English Department colleague, Pamela Glenn Menke, crafted this poem:

Song of the Soaring Marys
(In the fashion of William Butler Yeats, "Song of the wandering Aengus")

She soared above the Regis Hill
Because the fire was in her blood
And spied an Angel Guardian bloom
And plucked its gently greening bud.
And when white-souls were on the wing
With soul-sweet sisters flickering by
She dropped it gently through the rings of Suns and moons and endless sky.

When she saw its earth-bud forms
She blew the soulful fires aflame
And something rustled in those forms and something called her by her name.
It had become a Mary tree
Of suns and moons and glimmering girls.
With Mary visions and worded wings,
They sprang into the brightening air.

We'll not grow old with wandering through hollow print and silent halls
We'll soar with Mary's glimmering girls
And sing her songs and speak her name—
And whirl above the dappled grass
And plant till times and times are done
The silver apples of the moon
The golden apples of the sun.

Leo Chang

The following thoughts were written by Leo Chang's political science colleague, David Smailes:

Many Regis College graduates undoubtedly consider "political science" and "Leo Chang" synonymous terms. Since 1963, Dr. Chang has been an active member of the Regis College community, and his service in the political science department has stretched across three decades, the terms of three College presidents and numerous changes to Regis itself. Many of us find it difficult to imagine political science without Leo Chang, and his retirement this year marks a milestone in the school's history.

His colleagues will tell you that Leo, as he is always affectionately called, has been a model scholar, actively publishing works on political theory in general and Chinese philosophy in particular. Indeed, Leo's trips to China in 1985 and 1991 as a Fulbright Scholar have greatly enriched his intellectual contribution to our learning community.

But the real measure of Dr. Chang's contribution to the department and the College as a whole can be found in the lives of his students. His dedication to the art of teaching has always been his first priority, and his students will always remember his gentle way of challenging them to do their best, to progress as scholars, and to develop their own political values. He has touched many lives, and has enriched the intellectual and ethical development of many students.

The softball team finished with an 11-10 overall record (8-6 in the Commonwealth Coast Conference) and made it to the semifinals of the Massachusetts Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women (MAIAW) Tournament. Seniors Erin Howe (first base, catcher) and Cindy Sheehan (pitcher) were named CCC All-Stars, Sheehan earned Player of the Week honors and freshman Danielle Greeley was named Rookie of the Week.

Outdoor Track

Outdoor track enjoyed a remarkable 1999 season. Senior Katie Harrington capped her career with a Regis record of 12:29.96 in the 3000 meters. That was one of seven College records set during the spring. Freshman Helen Dinan won the New England Division III championship in the javelin with a record throw of 131' 11." Other record-setters are: junior Wilnie Wesh at 200 meters (27.78) and 400 meters (1:03.52); freshman Grace Ha in the high jump (4' 6"); freshman Chelsie Restic-Metcalf at 800 meters (2:34.39); and the 4 x 400 relay team of Wesh, Restic-Metcalf, sophomore Sally Ogine-Noel and junior Courtney Mayo (4:19.01).

Black Tie

On Saturday, May 8, we finally got our chance to attend the annual Black-Tie Ball. The agony of finding a dress, the perfect shoes, or even a date, was soon forgotten as we entered the beautiful College Hall Foyer. As we realized it would be one of our last nights together as a class, we bonded by eating a nice dinner, taking tons of pictures, laughing, and dancing the night away. It was a night we'd never forget.

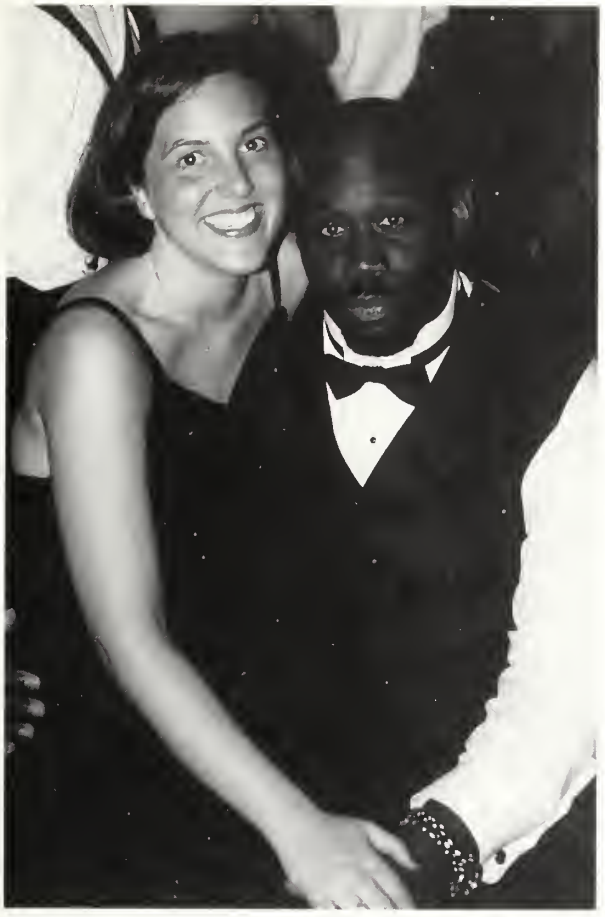
Lisa and Victor Share a Bite!

Is everyone ready? Okay, let's go!

Group Squeeze!

Group Kick

Natasha and Richard overlook the dancing crowd



Lisa and Eric take a seat

Unos, Dos, Tres...

Eskimo kiss

Katie and Date...say Cheese

Time for a slow song

Baccalaureate

The accomplishments of the graduating class were recognized in the Baccalaureate Ceremony, held in the Eleanor Welch Casey Theater. Members of our class were recognized for such achievements as Who's Who Among American College Students, Crimson and Gold Tassel Recipients, and Departmental Honors. It was our day to shine, and we certainly did.

Jen Collins proudly accepts her award

Sister Sheila addresses the audience

Caps on? Okay, we're ready!

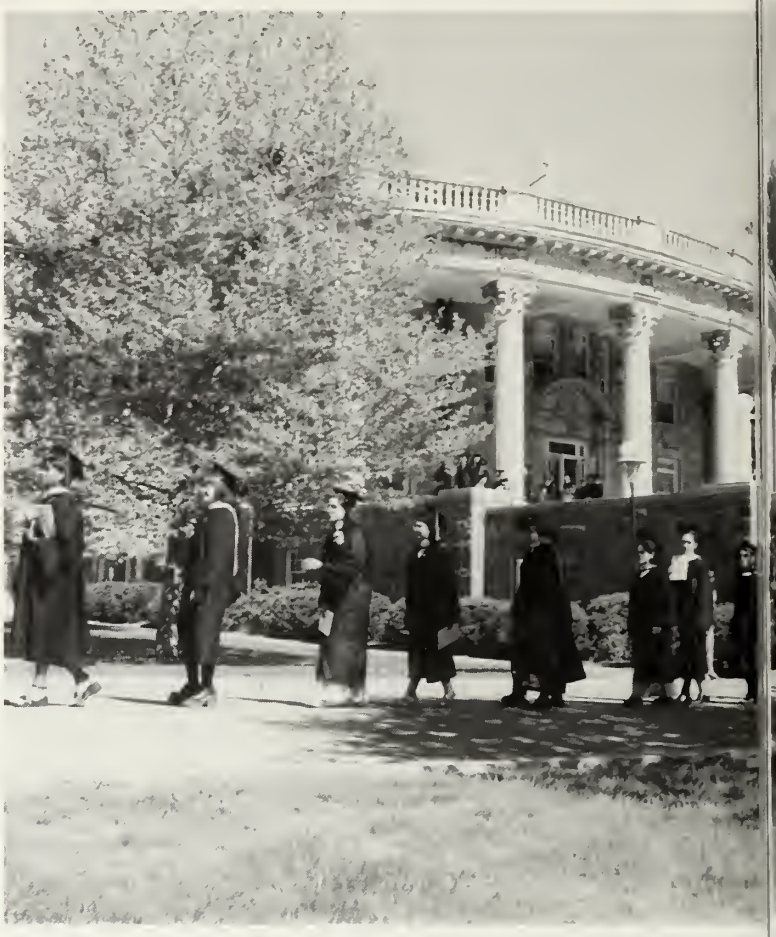
Commencement

May 15, 1999. Graduation day could not have been better. It was a beautiful, sunny day: The best reward for four years of hard work. We were greeted by Sister Sheila and given an inspiring speech by Mary Jo Bane, Honorary Degree recipient from Harvard University. Gwendolyn Calvert Baker also received an honorary degree. We were sure not to let any one of the Regis College community forget us by making all the noise we could, "performing" on stage as we received our degrees, and even throwing around beach balls. It was a very emotional, yet exciting day for us all.



What a beautiful day to graduate

This is it, girls!

Where's my family?

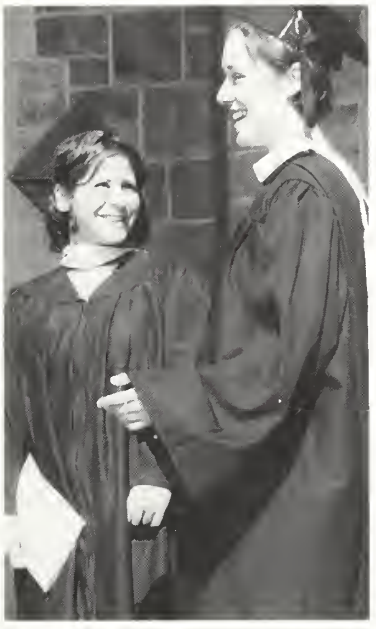
Who brought the rock star?

Dr. Chang, Graduation Marshall, with Academic Dean Sister Lee Hogan

Hey everyone, I'm over here, I'm next!

Pre-graduation jitters

So, what's next? Gee, I don't know!

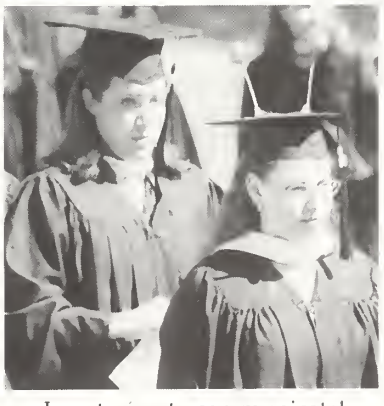


Hey, I thought this was an all WOMEN'S College!

Chandra and Steph wave to their families

That's it, girls, follow one another

The procession has begun



I am trying to communicate!

Dr. C proudly looks on to his "Women of Regis"

Graduation day brings smiles to all

Gwendolyn Baker accepts her Honorary Degree

Sister Sheila's Irish eyes are smiling

Izabella curiously looks at her diploma

Accepting the degree is the most exciting part

Who could forget Tangie's performance?

Enough said

I just cannot wait another minute

Look, girls, I got the banner!

Veronica raises the roof

Degree in hand, I'm outta here!

So many people to thank, so little time

It's PARTY TIME for the Class of 1999!

Singing the Alma Mater for one last teary-eyed time

Right on the kisser

Lisa, Lisa!

Shady grads

Apey, you sick?

I'm so excited, I just can't hide it!

YEAH!!! I did it!

Graduate friends share a special moment

Congratulations!!!

Messages to the Graduates

Best wishes to the Class of 1999. Here are some of my wishes for you. I wish:

That you understand and treat yourself well throughout life;
That you find peace of mind and are content with who you are;
That you find meaning and purpose in your life and contribute to making this a more just and humane society;
That you find balance in your life in the personal and work domains;
That you are wealthy in spirit;
That you strive to be good enough, not perfect.

Sincerely,
Carol Dorr, Ph.D.

GOOD RIDDANCE

time of your life

Another turning point, a fork stuck in the road.

Time grabs you by the wrist, directs you where to go.

So make the best of this test and don't ask why.

It's not a question, but a lesson learned in time.

It's something unpredictable, but in the end is right.
I hope you had the time of your life.

So take the photographs and still frames in your mind.

Hang it on a shelf in good health and good time.

Tattoos of memories and dead skin on trial.

For what it's worth, it was worth all the while.

It's something unpredictable, but in the end is right.
I hope you had the time of your life.

It's something unpredictable, but in the end is right.
I hope you had the time of your life.

It's something unpredictable, but in the end is right.
I hope you had the time of your life.
